

An aerial photograph of a landscape with dense green forest and brownish, cleared areas. A black line outlines a large, irregularly shaped region. Within this region, a blue line follows a winding path, likely a river or stream. A yellow dot is placed on the upper left side of the black boundary line. A white callout box with a black border points to this yellow dot. The text inside the box is in Spanish. The overall scene suggests a natural resource management or land use planning context.
